

The Envisor® DNA

Throughout two decades we have been on thousands of rooftops. We have looked down from beautiful college campus buildings, office buildings in the center of every major city in the country, shopping malls in the suburbs, and factories in numerous industrial parks. We have been fortunate to work with great architects and general contractors and contribute our little part towards the completion of some incredible buildings. Of all these projects, over all of these years, two things resonate as our most gratifying; customers and clients that continuously count on us for their projects and those unique requests that cause us to look at new ways to meet our customers needs.

Over the past 3 years we have increased the diversity of our manufacturing processes and are poised to take on new challenges. We have also been working closely within the industry to learn what new things we should include in our design portfolio. We are excited for what the next Envisor designs will look like on some of your next projects. Stay tuned over the next couple of months to see what we have been working on. The things you have counted on will not change - No roof penetrations, high quality materials, and multiple design options are part of the Envisor DNA. We can't resist the opportunity to share a couple of the projects we really love. Give them a look and check back with us next month to see what we have in store.
